

Nebraska's competition for professional diesel truck technicians

2012 Nebraska SuperTech

This competition has two events. The qualifying event is an ASE-style written test. You will be able to take it at a location near you on March 14 at 10 a.m. or 6 p.m., whichever time works best for you. The second and final event is a hands-on skills test. It will take place at Central Community College in Hastings on Thursday, April 12, 2012. The top 16 qualifiers from the written test will advance to the final. The entry fee for the written test is $5. The entry fee for the skills test is $55. Pay only the $5 fee now. If you must cancel, please notify the Nebraska Trucking Association seven days in advance of the written test in order to receive a refund of your entry fee. Please note: You must be employed full-time as a commercial vehicle technician to participate. Instructors and service managers do not qualify for this event. Also, as the Nebraska competition mirrors the national competition, if you are not eligible to compete at Nationals (i.e., you have won the national competition two years in a row), you are not eligible to compete at the Nebraska competition.
